RECEPTION

Melville Senior Citizens' Centre

Liz suffered from Alzheimers the past number of years and with declining health, passed away quietly and peacefully at a seniors' care facility in Calgary close by where her son Greg lived. Elizabeth was predeceased by her husband Nick Chudiak in 1999.

Born in Sheho, Saskatchewan, Elizabeth grew up there alongside twelve siblings (Ann, Doris, Nick, Mary, Kay, Bill, Vicki, Rose, Ivan, Steve, Eva, and Natalie). Her family owned an orchard and farm where they grew a range of different fruits and grains. Being part of a large family meant money was scarce and hard work was the norm. It was this work ethic and hardiness typically possessed by Saskatchewan people that stayed with Elizabeth throughout the rest of her life.

On September 26, 1958, Elizabeth was married to Nick Chudiak. They moved to Melville, Saskatchewan and shortly thereafter started their family. They had three children, David, Greg, and Susan, who now reside in Provost, Calgary, and Swift Current respectively.

Known by her family and friends simply as “Liz”, she had a feisty personality that gave her an attitude to get things done, whether it was work around the house, keeping her kids in line, or volunteering in the community. Liz very much enjoyed participating in and watching sports. In her younger years, she was an accomplished softball player and bowler. However, most important to her was watching her kids in different sporting activities, which usually meant driving all over Saskatchewan and sometimes beyond.

In Loving Memory

As an active member of the Melville community, Liz enjoyed many gatherings with friends and family there. She moved to Calgary in 2004 so she could be closer to her grandchildren. She took great joy in spending her time with them on a daily basis, helping out wherever she could.

If the measure of a person's life is the positive impact they have on others, Liz Chudiak led a great life. She was loved and will be greatly missed by her family and friends. Liz leaves behind many relatives along with her family of three children and six grandchildren: David Chudiak (Kassandra), Greg and Jacqueline Chudiak (Tyler, Kelsey, McKenna), and Susan Chudiak (Clayton and Michelle).
